the green economy represents an important support to economic growth investments and competitiveness therefore it is considered to be an important alternative in attaining the general wellbeing of the humans which is seen in the decrease of the risk while preserving the environment and using alternative energy sources atmospheric gases especially carbon dioxide create the greenhouse effect which influences the climate changes they are already generating the extreme weather conditions including powerful hurricanes and floods which have recently affected the western balkans having this in mind this book is created with the intention not only to point out to the extent to which the western balkan countries have accepted the concept of green growth but also to see what results are achieved in respect of implementation of this concept with the goal of overcoming the economic and financial crisis and creating the conditions for sustainable growth of this region besides this the intention was to emphasise the political economic and legal limitations that are blocking faster development of green economy as well as the possibilities of their overcoming this monograph has a very broad topic range with the goal of comprising the most important aspects and considerations of these issues as the end result of theoretical and research considerations of the author in approximately twenty chapters one gets a clear insight in how the region has progressed in respect of making the most important sectors green since the limits to growth report was published in 1972 it has been widely known that a commitment to endless growth was putting us on course for environmental disaster so why have we failed to take decisive political action in the half century since then in the meaning of growth richard mcneill douglas uses interpretive social science to uncover the cultural roots of political resistance to environmental science and policy through a close reading of anti environmentalist rhetoric the book identifies its idolisation of growth as a defence of a modern western european world view focusing on values of freedom power and immortality the significance of these findings is drawn out by applying the secularisation thesis a theoretical account of the development of a modern understanding of reality from a theological world view to which it is ostensibly opposed this framework is used to offer a deep interpretation of what is at stake in environmental debate that to accept there are limits to growth means abandoning crucial elements of a faith in a theodicy of progress that makes life meaningful in a secular age douglas concludes by suggesting that the precondition for political action on the environment is a change of philosophical perspective that provides for a sense of meaning in a world of limits this book should be of interest to academics in the fields of environmental sociology and communications studies as well as activists interested in understanding the motivations of anti environmentalist campaigners and how to counter their influence
